Shop with Purpose: Every Purchase Supports Cotton-top Tamarin Conservation

Welcome to our catalog of conservation-minded products, where every item tells a story of community, culture, and commitment to protecting Colombia's critically endangered cotton-top tamarins.

Whether you're cuddling a plush tamarin, wearing a bold t-shirt, or carrying an eco-mochila handcrafted by local artisans, your purchase directly supports Proyecto Titi's efforts to conserve forests and empower communities.

Each product is either made in Colombia or by local communities participating in our community livelihoods program. These initiatives not only provide sustainable income but also help spread the vital message that cotton-top tamarins are not pets—they belong in the wild.

Cotton-top tamarin

Fewer than 7,500 cotton-top tamarins remain in the wild — and they are found only in the forests of Colombia.

The survival of these critically endangered monkeys is threatened by habitat destruction and capture for the illegal pet trade. Proyecto Tití partners with local communities through sustainable development initiatives and training programs that foster pride in their natural resources and improve community well-being.

Eco-mochilas

Eco-mochilas are handcrafted by the skilled artisans of ASOARTESANAS using recycled plastic bags. By crocheting these beautiful products, these talented women help reduce the amount of plastic waste that would otherwise pollute the environment. The vibrant colors you see are the natural hues of the plastic bags collected in Colombia, meaning specific color availability depends on the bags we receive. We will do our best to honor your color preferences.
